

Southern Society Entertains Diplomatic Representatives

The President and Mrs. Wilson attended the reception and ball given at the Pan-American Union Building last evening by the Southern Society in honor of the diplomatic representatives of South and Central America. The Pan-American Union Building was the scene of the function, which proved to be one of the most brilliant affairs of the winter. Distinguished representatives of all circles of society were numbered among the guests who paid their respects to the Chief Executive and Mrs. Wilson and the Latin-American diplomats.

The Presidential entourage included also Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Mrs. William H. Bolling, Miss Bertha Bolling, Miss Edith Benham, Col. Hart, Lieut. Commander Berry, and Lieut. Watson. Arrived at 10:30 o'clock were the representatives of the Southern Society; Mr. John Barrett, Mr. Yanes, Mr. Daniel B. Henderson, Mrs. Maude Howell Smith and Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, who escorted them to the special room assigned to the President on the second floor. At 10:30 o'clock the diplomats, who had assembled in the room of the Director General, were received by the President and immediately thereafter the Presidential party and the guests of honor were escorted to a raised dais in the Hall of the Americas, where they held a court until 11 o'clock, when they proceeded to the Columbus room and were served a light refreshment. At midnight, after the ball was in full swing, the President and Mrs. Wilson departed.

The Pan-American Building made a lovely setting for the function. The patio was filled with giant palms and rare tropical plants and colored lights were strung on the fountain which played in the center of the court. Palms lined the marble stairways and screened the balcony, where the Marine Band played Southern airs during the reception. In the corridor outside the Hall of the Americas, flags of the South and Central American countries were suspended from the ceiling, and huge clusters of poinsettias and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the tables from which the buffet supper was served on the first floor.

The guests, who included representatives of diplomatic, official, army and navy and residential society, with a large contingent of distinguished Southern residents of the Capital, were received by Capt. Calhoun, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniels, Gen. and Mrs. Gorgas, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Woolley, Miss Mary Cusick Lee and Mrs. Adelaide Worth Bagley. Dr. Clarence J. Owen, Mr. Edgar Merritt and Mr. John G. Capers, made the presentations.

Mrs. Wilson was very lovely in a gown of pale gray chiffon and silver. A scarf of gray ostrich feathers was thrown gracefully round her shoulders and she carried a large fan of ostrich feathers in the natural shade. A hair ornament of maline caught with a jeweled pin and a corsage bouquet of purple orchids completed her costume.

Miss Margaret Wilson wore turquoise satin with bead trimming and touches of silver lace. Mrs. Daniels was gowned in orchid-colored satin and silver lace. Mrs. Woolley wore black tulle studied with jet. Miss Lee's gown was of black lace, and Mrs. Adelaide Worth Bagley wore black velvet and a scarf of real lace.

The guests of honor were: The Ambassador of Brazil and Mme. da Gama, the Ambassador of Argentina and Mme. Naon, the Minister of Bolivia and Mme. Calderon, Miss Elena Calderon, the Minister of Uruguay and Mme. de Pena, Miss Maria de Pena, the Minister of Guatemala and Mme. Mendez, the Minister of Colombia and Mme. ## HOROSCOPE.

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Friday, December 22, 1916.

Astrologers read this as a favorable day, since the Sun, Saturn, Venus and Neptune are all in benefic aspect. Mars and Mercury are adverse.

On this day the Sun enters Capricorn at the beginning of the winter quarter. The Moon and Venus are in an aspect indicating great distress among the poor in the United States.

Crime may increase greatly, especially where women and children are the victims. Mercury and Mars in conjunction is held to foreshadow railway accidents with serious loss of life. The quarters will be dangerous for travel on sea as well as on land.

Virgo rising with Mercury afflicted, at Washington, D. C., gives warning of riots and disorders over labor difficulties and the cost of living.

This sign, also, gives warning that the President should safeguard his person. Foreign trade may be decidedly injured by unexpected causes and heavy losses may be sustained.

This day should be lucky for those who seek employment, whether in high place or low.

Women should be especially lucky under this configuration, but they should resist the temptation to speculate.

It should be a lucky date for all social or philanthropic entertainments.

Actors and musicians have a fortunate guidance, while Venus is in friendly aspect.

Mines and mining have a rule precluding discoveries of gold and other minerals in Canada as well as the United States.

Plumbers, who also benefit through Saturn's aid, have the prognostication of gain, which will be of immense importance in the building business.

Persons whose birthdate it is have augury of a successful year, but they should guard against accident. The young will court and marry.

Children born on this day will be steadfast in purpose and successful. They are likely to be witty and favorites with all classes.

BOY SCOUTS TO SING WITH CHRISTMAS CHORUS

The 1,700 Boy Scouts of the seventy scout troops of the District will sing Christmas carols on the steps of the Treasury Department Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, according to a statement made yesterday by Scout Master Taylor.

Scout Master Herbert Bennett, of Troop 17, will assign the sections to their separate duties. Distribution of programs and song leaflets, ushering and patrolling will be done by the scouts.

There will be a group of upwards of 400 Girl Scouts under the leadership of Miss Katherine Smith, of the public health.

The scouts will assemble at the Treasury Department on the south plaza at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.
